WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, D.C., August 29, 1892.

The scourge, the ancient plague, the black death which for centuries has devasted the nations is on its westward march. Its nests and breeding places are those oriental shrines—centres of filth and fanaticism where myriads of ignorant and superstitious believers swarm and rot in their own nastiness, at Mecca, Benares, Calcutta, Jeddah and now at Meshed the Holy. Foul water neglect of the Mosaic precautions in respect to excrements and dead bodies, gross ignorance of things which even brutes teach men—they are the breeders of cholera, in the far east. From thence, it travels with the camel train to Cairo, Alexandria, Constantinople and to southern Russia, and then by swifter ships to Marseilles, Havre, Hamburg, Southampton and other ports and soon to Montreal, New York Baltimore and New Orleans.

From these centers it follows the line of travel to the remotest part of the land.
Before the days of railroads the interior was poisoned by the way of the river.
Such streams as the Arkansas carry it to the remotest west.

National and state officers are preparing to quarantine and disinfect along the entire coast, though it is charged by leading New Orleans physicians that northern seaboard cities are poorly defended. Says Dr. Joseph Holt, President of the New Orleans board of health: "As for New York and other ports along the Atlantic seaboard, excepting Charleston, S. C., their methods and equipments are utterly inadequate to the necessities.
They are in fact, as revealed by this emergency, mere political office reward-stations, whose methods are perfunctory, make-believe to hood-wink the public with a show of importance, while, in fact, they lack every essential of scientific requirement and trustworthiness."

Canada threatens to leave open doors because of her antiquated and insufficient means of protection. More than once has the cholera ascended the St. Lawrence and thence invaded the United States. On this account extra precaution should be taken along our whole northern frontier.

The cholera is ten times as fatal as the yellow fever. A cholera plague such as we have seen before would destroy thousands of lives, interfere with commerce, derange business, blight the World's fair and seriously check our present prosperity. Let the cause be avoided by watchfulness at every port and cleanliness in every city and every house of the land.

The world is growing small and the cholera can get around it quicker now than the traveller can do it in sixty days. And the cholera travels both east and west.
A week may bring a ship load of plague smitten victims from the old world to the new and another week would send them to our remotest corner. So near are we to the cancer spots of the old world—whether physical, political or moral.

We are getting nearer every year. It is suggested that the distance, that is the time, can be shortened by running a line of steamers from Labrador to Ireland and a comparatively small circle of latitude so as to reduce the length of the sea voyage about one half. Such a scheme contemplates a railroad to Labrador. It may not however be possible to reduce much more the time required to cross the ocean, yet the increase of travel, intercommunication and of intermingling interests are drawing the nations of the world together and the United States is losing much of her past isolation, and freedom from old-world plagues.

More insidious and dangerous scourges than cholera have free access to our land.
The blind rage of nihilism and anarchy—the cancerous virus begotten of old world oppression, bigotry and ignorance is brought over in swift ships and injected into the veins of national life. And our quarantine is insufficient and there are not wanting make-believe patriots who are disposed to indirectly foster this plague for political ends. Eternal vigilance is the price of national health.

THE ESTIMATES.

We publish this week two important documents, one the estimates presented by Mr. Haultain, at the last session of the Legislative Assembly, and the other, the estimates the new Executive would have presented had not the unfortunate deadlock occurred by the resignation of the Speaker, Mr. James Ross. By careful comparison the estimates it will be seen that those that would have been presented by the new Executive are much more in the general interests of the country and present several important features that the Haultain estimates do not. The new Executive intend to set aside the sum of $4,000 for immigration purposes, so that one of the most important features of the new Executive administration will be a vigorous Immigration Policy, thus promoting one of our most important interests which will commend itself to all the people of the North West. We have a great country, with homes for thousands, and the more rapid its settlement the sooner and more widely its great resources will become more fully known to all people in the world seeking homes. What the country wants at present is a progressive and vigorous immigration policy and the new Executive has made the first step in that direction.

Another important feature of the policy of the new Executive is the setting aside a sum for the proper carrying out of the Liquor License Ordinance and for that purpose has set aside the sum of $1,200 that License Inspectors will now have the way and means whereby they can have the Liquor Ordinance properly enforced. $107,990 has been set aside for Schools and the grants will be paid on the basis of the Haultain School Ordinance. Under this new system of paying school grants many of the country schools will not receive as large a grant as formerly. The Haultain system of grants to schools is based upon results and will prove an unfortunate change to many of the country schools, especially to those having a small attendance, and people only in the lower standards, and will thus place a heavier burden upon those schools that should receive greater Government support. Mr. Cayley, the leader of the new Executive is carefully looking into this matter with a view of granting additional assistance to those schools which would have been benefited by the new School Ordinance introduced at the last session had been passed. All other measures in connection with North West affairs will have the careful attention of the new Executive Committee, and we have no hesitation in saying that all matters pertaining to the interest of this great country will be carefully and economically administered by Mr. Cayley and his colleagues in office.

The following are the two estimates:

CANADA'S GRAIN CAPACITY.

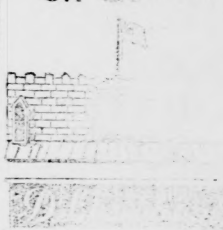

Sir Charles Tupper recently contributed a valuable though brief study of our grain growing capacity to the discussion now taking place regarding preferential British trade relations. He believes that India, Australia, and Canada can produce all the wheat required for consumption within the Empire. A very considerable portion of the Dominion lies within the wheat zone, while a very large proportion United States territory lies without it. The average yield in Manitoba and the Northwest ranges from 20 to 25 bushels; in the American Republic it is about 13 bushels. And this whole immense, but comparatively undeveloped country has been recently rendered accessible and opened up to settlement by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

Indeed, to anyone travelling along the line of railway at this season of the year and seeing on either side, as far as the eye can reach, unbroken fields of magnificent grain, harvested and safe from the fear of frost, it is not difficult to understand that great Manitoba crop of last year, in which 19,600 farmers are estimated to have raised 23,09,000 bushels of wheat, 14, 60, 900 bushels of oats, and barley and potatoes in proportion. In the North West Territories at the same time 3,600 farmers raised 7,093,500 bushels of wheat and a great number of cattle. As Sir Charles truly says, it is not, then, far, difficult to appreciate the possibility of Canada alone being able to supply the whole British market. England imported 13,000,000 bushels of wheat in 1891; and if the average yield per farmer in Manitoba and the Northwest is 1,350 bushels, it follows that with an export of 1,000 bushels from each farm, only 130,000 farmers are required to fill the total demand, or 78,000 to provide all the wheat and flour which the United States now exports.

In Canada alone at the present time there are 15,000,000 acres under cultivation. Following along the lines of well-known fertility and adaptability to the growth of cereals, there can be little doubt that in the course of years we will have 50,000,000 acres under cultivation. Then will be seen and understood the wisdom of that Imperial preferential policy which is now being urged by Sir Charles Tupper and so many others. Whether that be eventually successful or not, there can, however, be little doubt that our time is near, and that every new season will witness a distinct advance in Canadian agricultural production and prosperity.—Empire.

If Canada is in danger of being scourged by cholera the cloud hangs in the south, not in the north. On the 3rd inst. another plague stricken ship from Hamburg entered New York harbor. She had, according to report, ten cases of cholera on board, and reported twenty-three deaths during the voyage. She was at once sent down to the lower bay to keep company with the other suspected ocean steamers at anchor there. New York is a great city. The heat of its innumerable fires, acting on the atmosphere for many miles around, creates a draught which must exert some influence at the lower quarantine. The germs of the disease may be franchised in a variety of ways, and thus drawn towards the city. Cases are on record where the burning of infected clothing at some distance from centers of human habitation was the undoubted origin of cholera epidemics. Even should the twenty days quarantine proclaimed by President Harrison be rigorously put in force against saloon as well as steerage passengers, the city of New York is still in peril from the location of its quarantine station. This fact indeed hardly admits of contradiction. Once on shore there is of course a limit to conjecture regarding the future behaviour of the disease. But this much may at all events be stated: Canada's only protection then will be the cleanliness of its cities and their inhabitants and in the approach of the northern winter. With these things in our favor we may escape, even though the United States should suffer.
